Justin's Grandfather was usually very happy.

But sometimes he was sad,
because he was not able to do things he wanted to do.

Grandpa entered a boat race.
When the starter said “Go,” Grandpa rowed very hard, but his boat went around in a circle.

Grandpa joined the circus as a juggler. But every time he threw the balls up, they just fell to the floor beside him.

Grandpa got a job as a pizza maker. But when he started spinning the pizza crusts, he always dropped them on the floor.

Grandpa has a son, James, who is very smart -- he is a professor.

James is married to Linda, who is very smart -- she is a professor too.

They have a little girl, Payton, who is very smart -- she is in second grade.

They have a little boy, Justin, who is very smart, too -- he is a “Whale” in pre-school.

So Grandpa wrote a letter to James asking for help!

DEAR JAMES,

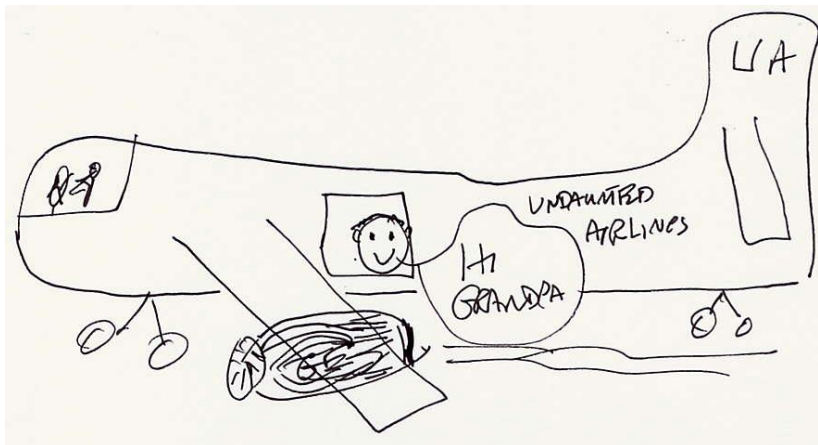

HELP

James and Linda and Payton and Justin all put their heads together and came up with a brilliant idea.

They told Grandpa to go to the airport on Sunday and wait for a big surprise.
So he did.

On Sunday, a big airplane arrived and guess who got off that airplane.

It was Grandpa's favorite 4 year old, Justin. Justin said "I'm here to help you Grandpa, but I can't stay long so let's get busy."

Justin and Grandpa joined the Boat race on the Ohio River and did they ever go straight and did they ever go fast!

They won the race. It wasn't even close!

Justin and Grandpa tried out together for the Circus and became very famous for their juggling.

Justin and Grandpa got a job as pizza makers and threw those pizzas, no problem.

Very soon Justin told Grandpa that it was time for him to go back home to his Daddy, Mommy, Sister, and to school.

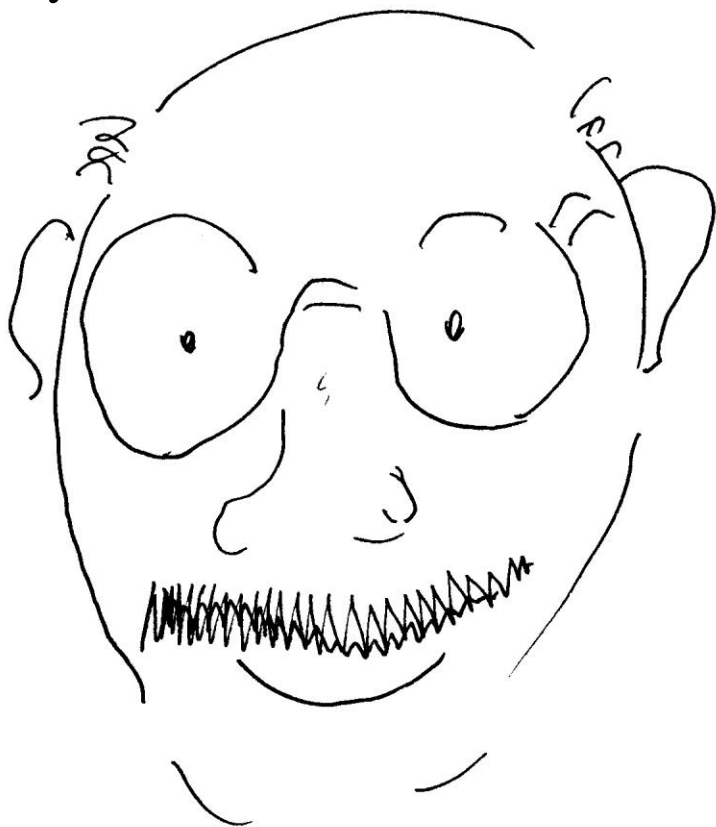

Grandpa understood, but he started to be sad again.

But Justin said, “Don’t be sad,
Grandpa, I’ll come back again soon and then I’ll teach you to be a bull rider.”

And so Grandpa was never sad
any more.
